The criteria for classifying leases types and the corresponding BOCs is outlined below:

LEASES

The following are the two categories of leases, based on the terms of the lease:

1) Lease-to-Purchase

a) Capitalized Lease-to-Purchase ($50,000 or greater)

These are leases with a dollar value of $50,000 or greater that transfer substantially all the benefits and risks of ownership to the lessee by meeting either of the following criteria:

1. The lease transfers ownership of the property to the lessee by the end of the lease term.
2. The lease contains an option to purchase the property at a bargain price.

Lease-to-Purchase agreements ($50,000 and over) for ADP software and hardware and telecommunications equipment that meet criteria 1 or 2 are considered capitalized lease-to-purchase and should be classified under 31.0 (use object classes 3153, 3163, 3173).

Lease-to-Purchase agreements ($50,000 and over) for all other non-ADP equipment that meet criteria 1 or 2 are considered capitalized lease-to-purchase and should be classified under 31.0 (use object class 3123).

b) Capitalized Lease-to-Purchase (under $50,000)

These are leases with a dollar value under $50,000 that transfer substantially all the benefits and risks of ownership to the lessee by meeting the either of the above criteria.

The following information will determine the appropriate object classification.

Lease-to-Purchase agreements (under $50,000) for ADP software and hardware and telecommunications equipment should be classified under the applicable direct purchase object classes under 31.0 (use object classes 3154, 3164, or 3174).

Lease-to-Purchase agreements (under $50,000) for all other non-ADP equipment should be classified under the general lease object classes under 31.0 (use object class 3124).

2) Lease Only

There are two types of lease only leases:

a) Capitalized Lease

These are leases that transfer substantially all the benefits and risks of ownership to the lessee by meeting one or more of the following criteria:

1. The lease term is equal to or greater than 75% of the estimated economic life of the lease property.
 2. The percent value of rental and other minimum lease payments, excluding that portion of the payments representing executory cost, equals or exceeds 90% of the fair value of the leased property.
- Lease only agreements ($50,000 and over) for ADP software and hardware, telecommunications equipment and all other equipment that meet either of the criteria above should be classified under the applicable capitalized lease - lease only object classes under 23.0 (use object classes 2342, 2353, or 2373).
 - Lease only agreements (under $50,000) for ADP software and hardware, telecommunications equipment and all other equipment that meet either of the criteria above are considered capitalized leases but because of the dollar value (less than $50,000) should be classified under the general lease object classes under 23.0 (use object classes 2341, 2351, 2371, or 2372).

b) Operating Lease (any dollar value)

These are leases of any dollar value, usually with a term of one year or less, where the risks and benefits, as well as ownership, stays with the lessor (this type of lease does not meet any of the criteria used for capitalized leases). The following information will determine the appropriate object classification.

- Operating lease agreements (any dollar value) for ADP software and hardware, telecommunications equipment and all other equipment should be classified under the general lease object classes under 23.0 (use object classes 2341, 2351, 2371, or 2372).
